

Let's Excel in English Lee Policy

ASCM is an International Seminary and as such there are many different heart languages represented by our diverse student body. Therefore not everyone is able to understand non-English conversations between students speaking to others in their own language. This is discourteous at best and considered rude at worst. In consideration of all the ASCM community we will strictly speak the common language of English while on the ASCM campus.

Along with promoting a sense of community and inclusion we want to raise the English proficiency for the entire ASCM community through the use of English in all instruction and conversations.

Exceptions to the LEE Policy apply in language classes and prayer.
